REPORT OF THE STOCK EXCHANGE ENQUIRY COMMITTEE

I—INTRODUCTORY

We, the undersigned members of the Committee appointed to examine and report on the organisation and methods of working of the Native Share and Stock Brokers' Association of Bombay, to consider whether any modifications are desirable in the interests of the investing public, and to make recommendations, have the honour to report as follows :

2. The Resolution of Government appointing the Committee (Appendix I) extended a general invitation to associations or persons, wishing to make proposals for the reorganisation of the Bombay Stock Exchange or for improving its methods of working, to send in written statements of their views to the Secretary of the Committee. In response to this invitation 55 representations were received. On the basis of the suggestions contained therein as well as of comments appearing in the public Press, a questionnaire (Appendix II) was drawn up by the Committee and was circulated to a number of associations and individuals and to the Press. Thirty-eight associations and individuals sent in replies to the questionnaire, and of these 22 were invited to give oral evidence before the Committee. A list of the witnesses examined and also a list of the associations and persons who submitted representations and replies to the questionnaire are appended (Appendix III).

II—GENERAL REMARKS

3. It is now very generally recognised that reasonable facilities for speculative transactions are a necessary and healthy part of the machinery of a Stock Exchange, which provides a free market where securities may be bought and sold to the best advantage and without undue delay. The acceptance of this principle has weighed with us in arriving at our conclusions and recommendations. The difficulty will always exist of so defining what is legitimate and reasonable speculation as to be able to draw a definite line of demarcation between that and reckless speculation or mere gambling in differences. It is the confusion of thought which results from the inability clearly to differentiate speculative dealings of a legitimate nature and speculation which is gambling that has led critics of the Stock Exchange to demand strongly restrictive measures being applied to all dealings other than those which are concerned with sales of actual holdings and purchases for the purpose of investment. We have taken the view that our efforts should be directed towards restricting as far as possible the facilities provided for reckless gambling, while, at the same time, leaving the way open for the exercise of what we claim is a perfectly legitimate function of a Stock Exchange.

4. We are of opinion that, though the Board of Directors of the Native Share and Stock Brokers' Association has taken action in some directions to improve working conditions amongst its members, since the Atlay Committee reported in 1924, and though there has been no recent recurrence of "corners" which, prior to that date, were an all too frequent cause of difficulties in the Bazaar, trading in the Bazaar and its administration still reveal certain fundamental weaknesses of practice and, almost as important, of mentality.

5. We are satisfied, from the evidence which has been placed before us, that, of the total business transacted on the Bombay Share Bazaar, too high, indeed much too high, a proportion is of a speculative nature,—several witnesses estimated such business at anything between 80 and 90 per cent.—and of that speculative business, a very high proportion has degenerated into a mere gamble in differences, thus constituting an ever present threat to the continued existence of the Bazaar as a serious place of business, capable of discharging with efficiency its proper functions as an important and essential part of the economic machinery of the Presidency and of the country.

6. The first and fundamental principle of Stock Exchange practice and administration is that there shall be no interference with the natural course of a market, except in what would be, in practice, quite clearly definable circumstances. The natural corollary to that is that every bargain must be regarded as a contract to deliver or to take delivery of a stated amount of stock at a stated price and within a stated time, and that any failure to implement fully such contract on the terms of the contract, by bona fide money payment, must automatically, and without exception, be followed by a public declaration of default. In the course of our enquiry we have heard evidence which, in our view, clearly proves that a mentality exists which interferes with these principles. A Stock Exchange, by reason of its peculiarly intimate relations with the public and because the behaviour of its members has important repercussions on the public weal, demands a very high standard of conduct on the part of its members, and of administration on the part of its controlling body. Moreover, in Bombay the Share Bazaar, being recognised by Government, is placed in a privileged position, and such a privilege entails corresponding responsibilities.

7. We have tried to keep in view as our main aim the desirability of setting up this high standard of business conduct for the Bombay Stock Exchange, and many of the recommendations we make, whether they pertain to the organisation of the Stock Exchange as a whole or to the constituent parts of it, have this aim as their basis, and we wish to emphasize that, in the main, our recommendations are interdependent, and, except for those which deal with detailed or routine matters, non-acceptance of one recommendation may render the remainder ineffective.

8. We have used the direct method as little as possible, as we are of opinion that, when definite restrictive rules or regulations are laid down, the Board of Directors can only act within the limitations imposed by such rules and regulations, and that ways and means are, all too frequently, speedily found to evade them in spirit, if not in letter. In many cases it might be found that direct violation of rules was difficult to detect or to bring home to the offenders. With the direct method of checking over-trading and over-speculation, we have, therefore, combined the indirect method.

9. We are of opinion that, when members of the Association realise that there is no longer any power left to the Board of Directors to intervene in the due completion of bargains, except in very grave circumstances when the consent of Government will have to be sought and obtained, and that members themselves may not individually intervene in the completion of bargains without being liable to very severe penalties, the effect will be, in conjunction with our other recommendations, to compel members to realise that their commitments, either for themselves or for constituents, must be kept within the bounds dictated by ordinary business caution as well as by fear of consequences.

10. By withdrawing or curtailing certain powers of the Board to intervene in the due completion of bargains and to interrupt the free play of the normal factors of supply and demand, and by strengthening the rules applying to defaulters, we have sought to create a situation where only the presence of the very gravest circumstances will be permitted to interfere with the settlement of bargains on the due date.

11. If, despite our efforts to draft rules embodying the principles we have stated, it is found that the intention underlying our proposals is being ignored or evaded, we can only draw the attention of Government and of the controlling body of the Share Bazaar to the fact that evasion constitutes the meanest and most deplorable form of treachery to fellow-members and to the public alike, and when detected, should be visited by swift and condign punishment of the offenders. In the last resort, we express the hope that Government would not hesitate to exercise its prerogative and withdraw recognition from the Association, should it be found to persist in its refusal to recognise its responsibilities to the State and to itself.

III—WHEN THE BOARD MAY INTERVENE

12. The Board of Directors have at present the following powers of intervention in the normal operations of the market :—

- (1) Power to suspend the selling-out rule.
- (2) Power to suspend dealings in shares and securities subjected to "bear" raids.
- (3) Power to suspend the buying-in rule.
- (4) Power to suspend dealings in shares and securities in which a corner has been effected, and to fix prices at which settlement in such cases may be effected.
- (5) Power to close the market in crises, whether national or domestic in character.

13. There cannot be any doubt that some of these powers every Stock Exchange of any importance ought to have, but clearly the powers of the Board in the Bombay Share Bazaar go much beyond what is either strictly necessary or desirable. The possession of these powers by the Board, even when they have not been abused, is in itself calculated to engender, and has in fact engendered, in the operators, whether "bulls" or "bears", a wholly unhealthy mentality. These feel secure against the extreme or ultimate consequences of their own rashness, and hence they tend to operate recklessly and regardless of the resultant consequences both to the market and to the genuine investor. It is clearly, therefore, of the first importance that this mentality should be eradicated, by eliminating from the organisation and constitution of the Bazaar the principle of intervening with a view to correct difficult situations which result entirely from the internal operations of the market.

Suspension of selling-out Rule.

14. In the first place, then, we consider it undesirable that the Board should at any time suspend the selling-out rule. There need never be any necessity to do so, for in "bear" raids, when prices reach a level below the fair market value, a stage must inevitably arrive at which the natural forces of the market must operate and check the downward trend; and since the market continues to be in a position to correct itself automatically, it is unsound in principle to interfere in order to protect unwary or reckless "bulls", whether members or non-members.

15. It has been argued that it is necessary for the Board to possess powers to suspend the selling-out rule, because, when by reason of "bear" selling, the market value of one or more securities is lowered, the investor is penalised and forced to incur heavy losses through being compelled to realise securities at an artificially depreciated level. An examination, however, of this argument shows that when the term "investor" is used, it is not confined to the buyer who has taken up and paid for his security, but is extended to cover that speculative investor who, unable in the first place to finance his purchases out of his own resources, has had recourse to banks or other financial institutions, to assist him in completing his purchases by advancing him money against the deposit of securities. In this case, the fact that he is unable to meet any extra margin demanded by the lender, in the event of a fall taking place in the price of the security, places him in precisely the same position as the member who has entered into liabilities beyond his capacity, and there appears, therefore, to be no reason why he, any more than the member, should be saved from the results of over-trading or over-speculation, by interfering in the normal course of the market. "Bears" attack a market or security when speculative purchases have raised the price to an uneconomic level, and a weak and vulnerable "bull" account has, in their opinion, been built up. In any stock or commodity market such a situation is remedied or sought to be remedied by sales of real stock and by short selling. Just as the "bulls" have taken prices to a level which, it is inferred, discounts immediate prospects, so no doubt, on the swing of the pendulum and under the pressure of sales, prices are driven down below that value. In due course, supply and demand, based on estimates of a fair market value, restore equilibrium. That unwary or reckless "bulls", whether members or non-members, suffer financial losses during such a period of adjustment is the inevitable consequence of assuming liabilities they cannot discharge. In so far as the trader is concerned, who, in order to finance legitimate trade commitments, has deposited securities with his banker as security for loan or overdraft, we consider that the class of securities likely to be affected by the absence of this power will be confined to the limited number of scrips in which there is a speculative market in Bombay, and these would be the last class of securities which a banker would accept or a trader would wish to deposit for the purpose of obtaining resources to carry on a legitimate business. In any case, it is significant that the practice of bankers in Bombay is to demand very heavy margins, extending up to 50 per cent., against loans on securities of this nature.

Suspension of Buying-in Rule.

16. While we do not think that the Board should have the power to suspend the "selling-out" rule, we hold that they must have the power to suspend the "buying-in" of securities, when circumstances appear to them to make such suspension desirable in the general interest. This may appear to be inconsistent, but the inconsistency is more apparent than real. In the case of a market subjected to "bear" raids, it cannot be said, as has been stated above, that the natural forces of the market cease to operate. On the other hand, when an effective "corner" has been established, the natural forces do so cease to operate, and instead of the supply and demand based on estimates of fair market value being able to restore equilibrium, the settlement of the bargains can only be effected at prices which will be dictated by the individual or group of individuals who may have successfully brought about a "corner". It is only with a view to impose some limit on this absolute power obtained by such individual or group of individuals that the Board of the Stock Exchange must have the right to intervene to the extent of suspending the "buying-in" rule, and thus preventing the buyer from utilising the machinery of the Stock Exchange to drive prices to an altogether unwarranted height. We do not think that the Board should have the power to fix the price at which the bargains may be closed. The effect of the suspension would merely be to compel the buyers to offer reasonable and acceptable terms to the sellers at which they may close their commitments. The buyer, on the one hand, will be induced to be reasonable, because he will realise that bargains will remain unclosed and differences will not be paid so long as the "buying-in" rule remains suspended, and the seller, on the other hand, will also be constrained to adopt a reasonable attitude, because he will be aware of the power of the Board of Directors to withdraw the suspension, should it come to the conclusion that the terms offered by the buyer are not unreasonable. We may, however, point out that on any Stock Exchange which realises the importance of the principles stated in this report, resort to suspension of the buying-in rule is only had in very exceptional circumstances. So far as the Chairman's recollection goes, this power has been utilised in London only once in the past thirty years, and that was to deal with the situation created by a temporary corner in Northern Pacific Railway shares.

Suspension of short-selling and Power to close the Market.

17. There may arise also circumstances in which it may become necessary, in the interest of the general public, either to close the market or to suspend short-selling in any scrip or scrips with the least possible delay. A Stock Exchange reacts with remarkable rapidity to outside occurrences, such as the declaration of war or the announcement of a vital change in the currency policy of an industrially important country. On such occasions, prompt action by the Board alone may avert a calamity. It is, therefore, in our opinion, essential that the Board should have the power both to suspend short-selling and to close the market. But it will be evident that it is not contemplated that these powers shall be exercised either frequently or to stave off a domestic crisis resulting from operations in the market. The exercise of the power to suspend short-selling, for instance, should be restricted to occasions when the general body of investors throughout the country have to be protected from the anti-social activities of unscrupulous individuals, who might attempt to utilise a grave national or international situation to their own advantage.

18. In order to insure against any improper use of these twin powers of the suspension of "buying-in" and of short-selling, we think it necessary that they shall only be exercised with the previous consent of Government. The power to close the market, however, cannot thus be circumscribed, if it is to be exercised to any purpose. Events may move so rapidly on the Exchange that instantaneous action may at any particular time well avert a disaster, which hesitation or delay would only precipitate. We recommend that the Board should have the power to close the market for twenty-four hours without the consent of Government, but that if it wished to keep it closed for a longer period, it must approach the Government for the purpose. Our reasons for proposing that the consent of Government be obtained in these circumstances is that, from the evidence which has been given to us, it is clear that, amongst even important representative bodies and associations, there is a certain lack of confidence in the Stock Exchange and in its administration. There is no doubt that to some extent that criticism is based on misconception of a number of factors, but there is sufficient evidence to show that it exists, and we consider it is politic to recognise that fact. We believe that when the public realise that the decisions of the Board have been concurred in by Government, the effect on the community will be to increase and to maintain a feeling of confidence in the Stock Exchange and its administration.

19. It has been suggested that Government would be in a position of considerable difficulty when called upon to agree or to disagree with any request by the Board to be allowed to exercise these powers, inasmuch as Government has no detailed technical knowledge of conditions on the Stock Exchange. We consider that these fears are unjustified. For Government the test, before giving or withholding its consent to the application of the Exchange to exercise any of these powers, is simple: they need only ask themselves whether their consent is sought with a view to serve the general good or only to save individuals from the consequences of their own rashness.

20. In fine, therefore, we propose that the Board should have—

- (1) power to suspend the “buying-in” rule, with the previous consent of Government;
- (2) power to suspend short-selling, also with the previous consent of Government; and
- (3) (i) power to close the market for twenty-four hours; and
 (ii) power to keep it closed for any longer period only when the prior consent of Government has been obtained.

IV—INVIOABILITY OF BARGAINS

21. The second principle already mentioned, which governs the administration of a well organised and soundly conducted Stock Exchange, is that a bargain once entered into in the market shall be implemented regardless of the consequences. Its strict application may at times prove to be harsh towards the individual, but that harshness is necessary and justified in consideration of the general good, as indeed has been found to be the case in every Stock Exchange of importance in the world.

22. We cannot, therefore, condemn too strongly the principle of compromise to avoid default, which has gained acceptance in Bombay. Indeed, we regard it as responsible to no small extent for the existence of so much unhealthy speculation and over-trading in the Bombay market. And we are, therefore, confident that when members begin to realise that the Board has no longer power to intervene between them and the consequences of their actions, in sheer self-preservation they will discard recklessness and conduct their business on more cautious and conservative lines. Our recommendations as regards defaulters aim, therefore, at establishing alike the principle that a bargain must be implemented, and the high standard, to which we have already drawn attention, in relation to the conduct of Stock Exchange business and administration. We propose, in the first place, with all the emphasis at our command, that compromise in any shape or form, in order to avoid default, shall be prohibited under pain of severe penalties.

23. It is necessary to comment here upon a point which, though apparently minor, is one of considerable importance.

At present a member is liable to be declared a defaulter if he fails to fulfil his obligations to a fellow-member only. It is self-evident that his failure to fulfil his engagements arising out of a contract made subject to the rules of the Association with a non-member should also be followed by a declaration of default; and we suggest, therefore, that Rule 135 (a) should be amended accordingly; and, in order to add a very necessary link to the chain of responsibility, we think that some improvement is called for in the method of dealing with a defaulter's assets. At present, a defaulter's property, outside the Stock Exchange, is not made available to the Defaulters Committee for the benefit of his creditors. We suggest that, as in London, it should be made a condition of membership that in the event of a member being declared a defaulter he shall sign a deed of assignment, in a prescribed form, in favour of the Defaulters Committee. Any objection to this proposal can only be based on a reluctance to allow attachment of some part of a defaulter's assets for the benefit of his creditors, and every right-thinking member of the Association must agree that such objection is untenable.

24. The question of conditions on which defaulters shall be re-admitted is very closely allied to the actual declaration of default. It is our considered opinion that, if it is desired to secure the fullest effects of the acceptance of the principle of inviolability of bargains, the terms of re-admission of defaulters should be made very strict and rigid. For, to make them easy would be to undermine the whole principle and the whole mentality which we are at pains to build up. We recommend, therefore, that—

(1) a member whose default has been brought about or has been contributed to by speculation on his own account should not be re-admitted under any circumstances;

(2) a defaulter who has paid 16 annas in the rupee shall be eligible for re-admission by the Board if it is satisfied that his conduct in other respects gives rise to no cause for complaint;

(3) in order that the Board may be enabled to deal with the more extreme cases of hardship, it should have powers similar to those possessed by the Committee of the London Stock Exchange to re-admit a defaulter, whose conduct, on examination, is found to be irreproachable and whose failure is proved to be entirely or in the main due to misfortunes, even if such defaulter has paid up only a portion of his liabilities.

The effect of these proposals on the rules of the Association is indicated in Appendix IV. We realise, of course, that, however sound these rules may be, they will fail to achieve their object if they are not enforced, and we earnestly trust, therefore, that the Board of Directors will enforce the rules and exercise their discretion in this matter with the same impartiality and strictness with which that discretion is exercised by the Committee of the Stock Exchange in London.

V—OTHER FACTORS

25. The proposals we now proceed to examine are designed to institute a check on what a considerable volume of evidence before us indicates as one of the sources of public disquiet, and that is the readiness with which speculative transactions can be opened on the Stock Exchange. They seek to make it more difficult for those members of the public who may be tempted, by various means, to engage themselves beyond their present or even prospective resources in Stock Exchange speculation.

Control of Remisiers (Sub-brokers).

26. One of the more important aspects to be considered in this connection is the proper regulation of the remisier or, as he used to be known, the sub-broker. The amendments proposed by the Association should go a long way towards bringing about a healthier state of affairs, and should result in materially raising the prestige and the efficiency of the remisier. Such proposals as we have made are designed still further to strengthen the proposals already put forward by the Association. It was suggested on a number of occasions in the course of the evidence given before us, that remisiers should be compelled to make some deposit, say a sum of Rs. 5,000, with the Association authorities, as a guarantee of good faith and as providing some proof that they were of some financial standing and not entirely without resources. We think that such a provision will have an effect in bringing home to the remisier that he is a responsible individual, and at the same time tend to render him more cautious in the business which he accepts, because under certain circumstances his deposit will be liable to be forfeited.

27. We have given considerable thought to the proposal to limit the number of remisiers a member or a firm of members may employ, and have come to the conclusion that to impose a direct check would be undesirable and may even defeat its object. In our opinion, such a check will indirectly be instituted if an annual subscription, say of Rs. 200, is made payable in respect of every remisier registered with the Stock Exchange. Incidentally, this proposal will also have the effect of giving the remisier a definite standing in the Stock Exchange. For self-evident reasons, we suggest further that a remisier should not be eligible for registration so long as he is engaged in any other business than that of acting as a remisier to a member of the Association, and that, on leaving the member or firm to whom he is attached, he should not be registered as a remisier to another member or firm until he has obtained a clearance certificate to show both that his conduct with his former employer was satisfactory, and that he had left him clear of all debts and outstanding liabilities.

Reduction of unhealthy Speculation.

28. The problem of eliminating or reducing as far as possible the unhealthy or undesirable variety of speculative business is by no means easy of solution. We have examined a number of proposals that were placed before us in the course of this enquiry, and unfortunately we have had to reject most of them, mainly because they were found to be impracticable. In our opinion, something, however, can be achieved by attacking this problem in a direct manner.

Restriction on Speculation by Employees.

29. We suggest, in the first instance, that all speculative dealings with employees should be prohibited unless they have obtained the written consent of their employers. That such a restriction may possibly be resented by responsible employees constitutes no good reason for not applying a condition which can only operate as a safeguard. It may be noted that such a rule is in force on the London Stock Exchange and has been found to work satisfactorily.

System of Margins.

30. The establishment of a system of margins, too, should have the effect of keeping speculative business, to some extent at least, within the means of those speculating. We have considered a great deal of evidence tendered to us on this point, and have come to the conclusion that a system of margins is desirable, and would act as a definitely restrictive influence on that class of speculation which we are most anxious to discourage, namely, speculation conducted by financially weak individuals. The drawback to many of the proposals submitted is that, in our opinion, they are too complicated to be put into operation on a market entirely unused to such a system, and that consequently such schemes would either be evaded or be ineffective. If a relatively simple scheme of margins could be evolved, we are of opinion that its effect could not be other than beneficial. We have in mind such a scheme as will impose (i) a percentage margin on the initial bargain price, (ii) an additional percentage margin on the make-up price at the first settlement, if the security is carried over, and (iii) further additional percentages as supplementary margins at each of the following settlements. We do not put this forward as a complete scheme, but merely as an indication of how a relatively simple method could be adopted in the first instance, which would have the effect of imposing a definite check on the initial transaction and would penalise its prolongation beyond the due date of the original settlement. Should it be found possible to put such a scheme or some variation of it into operation, in course of time, with the experience gained, it might be found possible to administer more detailed provisions.

31. We think that the combined effect of the prohibition upon accepting employees' business except with the consent of their employers, and the adoption of a system of margins, however crude, will have an appreciable effect on the volume as well as the quality of speculation.

Fortnightly or Monthly Settlements.

32. With the system of margins we link the question of monthly or fortnightly settlements, which is another question on which we have listened to a considerable amount of evidence. The argument in favour of the fortnightly settlement as opposed to the monthly settlement is that the former would impose an earlier check on the accumulation of speculative liabilities, and by requiring a settlement of the bargain within a few days of the transaction being entered into, would discourage the weak speculator from opening an account, and would at the same time make for safety by the more frequent settlement of differences. On the other hand, there is a considerable difference of opinion as to whether fortnightly settlements would in effect reduce the volume of speculation.

Should, however, a system of margins be adopted, we think that, that in itself would make further consideration of the institution of a fortnightly settlement, at any rate at this juncture, unnecessary. But if a system of margins is not adopted, or if it does not have the effect anticipated, then, we recommend that fortnightly settlements should be introduced.

Minimum Scale of Brokerage.

33. The importance, from a number of points of view, of instituting a scheme of minimum commission scale has been argued by many witnesses, and we consider that such a rule should, without doubt, be brought into force. We prefer the minimum commission scale to the fixed scale which has been proposed by some witnesses, because the former allows a reasonable latitude to the broker to charge somewhat more than the fixed minimum scale, in special circumstances. At present, the absence of a minimum scale of commission, while there is in operation a maximum scale, has resulted in severe competition amongst members, and an uneconomic cutting of the rates of commission charged. In our opinion, one unhealthy result of this is that members are induced to accept business carrying an undue risk, in order to increase their commission account as much as possible. If the charging of a minimum commission is made compulsory, there will be less inducement for members to accept this class of business; besides, it will also eliminate the practice of a client, especially an influential client, playing one broker off against another. It is most important, however, that there shall not be any undercutting of the minimum scale which may be laid down, and we would suggest that the Board should enforce its provisions in this respect with great strictness and penalise their breach with suspensions for periods varying with the seriousness of the offence.

34. In this connection, we would point out that the proposed amendment to rule 192 provides that where the consideration money is Rs. 2,000 or under, the full brokerage laid down must be charged, but that in the case of a transaction in which the consideration money exceeds Rs. 2,000, a member may at his discretion charge a reduced brokerage, provided that such reduced brokerage shall not be less than one half of the scale prescribed. In our opinion, the limit fixed is too low and would result in the great bulk of the business being executed at half the minimum commission. This means that the initial minimum scale would have to be fixed either so high as to bring criticism from the public, or at so moderate an amount that it would be found to be too low for the purpose in view. We, therefore, suggest that the minimum scale should be charged on all transactions for account up to Rs. 10,000 and on all transactions for cash up to Rs. 5,000, but that on transactions in one security exceeding those amounts, half commission may be charged on the amount by which the total exceeds Rs. 10,000 or Rs. 5,000, as the case may be.

Principal's or Agency Contract.

35. Very closely connected with the question of brokerage scales is the question of the form in which contracts should be issued. There is clearly in the minds of the public an impression that the present practice of issuing ordinarily only principal's contracts makes it difficult, if not impossible, for the client to satisfy himself that an unduly high commission has not been extorted from him in one form or another. This is a contention which cannot, for obvious reasons, be substantiated by providing evidence of actual cases. Had it been possible to do so, such evidence would not only have been submitted to the Board of Directors, but, we presume, would also have resulted in proper disciplinary measures being taken against the offender. Apart from other considerations, the fact that the belief that such practices exist is firmly fixed in the minds of many members of the public, provides of itself sufficient ground to warrant our recommending that members should only be permitted to issue agency contracts which clearly state the amount of brokerage charged. This course is the more desirable inasmuch as it establishes a practice which emphasizes the legal position that a broker is only the agent of his constituent. It has been stated that this will interfere with the right of members to act as principals in regard to their constituents, but we are unable to find that there is a sufficient volume of legitimate business done by members as principals to justify any opposition to the proposal to issue only agency contracts. It may be objected that the existing rules make it possible for a client to demand an agency contract and that in effect responsibility is laid on the client if he accepts any other form. Many clients, however, are entirely unaware of these technical points and are lulled into the belief that they are receiving some benefit when they receive a contract which states only the net price. We understand that it is a practice amongst members to guarantee to their constituents the due completion of any contract. This, however, is only a custom and only to the extent that it would be upheld as such by the courts is the constituent in any way protected against the common law regarding agency.

Put-through Business.

36. Our attention has also been drawn to a practice amongst members, whereby one member who may have received a substantial order from a client to purchase or sell securities is deterred from executing such order in the name of his own firm by reason of his belief that the market will be put up or down against him and that his client will consequently be a loser, and to obviate this difficulty another member or members are employed to execute the business in the trading ring. Such practice is no doubt legitimate when it is inspired by an honest desire to serve the best interests of the non-member, but it is open to serious abuse in so far as it is the practice of the members executing the business not to work on any fixed scale of remuneration. We propose, therefore, that it should be laid down in the rules that when a member employs another member as intermediary to execute the business of a non-member, such intermediary shall report the business to the member employing him at the same price as he dealt in the market. The broker may pay the intermediary a share of the brokerage charged to the constituent. The contract note shall state that the business has been done through a member acting as an intermediary with whom the brokerage charged has been divided. The effect of such a rule would be that the non-member's business would be executed at the same price as, and possibly to better advantage than, if the member to whom he had entrusted the order had dealt himself, as the intermediary will be receiving his remuneration not in addition to, but out of, the broker's commission.

Responsibility of a Member of a Firm.

37. We would invite attention here to a practice which, we are given to understand, exists in the Share Bazaar, of a member, who although a partner in a firm of members, yet enters into a contract for the purchase or sale of securities with non-members in his own personal capacity. We are of opinion that such a practice is highly undesirable inasmuch as it permits a member of the Association to contract liabilities which are dischargeable only out of his own resources, which do not involve his partners in any responsibility, and which may be incurred without the knowledge of his partners. We, therefore, propose that it should be ruled that a member who is a partner in a firm shall not enter into a contract for the purchase or sale of securities either with a member or a non-member save in the name of the firm and that the firm shall be liable for the completion of the contract under the rules and regulations of the Stock Exchange. To put this point in another form, no contract shall be issued in the name of an individual member of the firm, it being laid down clearly that in the case of a firm every contract shall be issued only in the name of the firm.

Abolition of Blank Transfers.

38. The desirability of abolishing the use of blank transfers by making them a bad delivery has been urged upon the Committee from many quarters. The matter is one which presents many technical considerations, and there are arguments in favour of such a course as well as against. The use of blank transfers, by offering the buyer an opportunity of avoiding the Government stamp duty, does undoubtedly, by reason of reducing expenses, act as an encouragement towards speculation. The existence of such documents in large numbers makes the records of companies' registers incomplete, inaccurate and misleading; besides which many persons are put to considerable trouble by reason of the fact that shares are not transferred from their names for many years after they have been sold. Clearly, the whole situation is one which is both irregular and undesirable, and, if it is at all possible, it should be stopped. Against this proposal it is urged that the effect of making blank transfers a bad delivery in Bombay Presidency only, would be to drive business from Bombay to other centres. We have given careful consideration to this point, and appreciate that uniformity all over India is a desirable end to have in mind, but, in view of the evidence we have heard as to the attitude of mind of the local investor as well as taking into consideration our experience of investors generally, we do not attach any weight to this particular argument.

39. The inevitable consequence of the abolition of blank transfers will be that the payment of stamp duty will have to be enforced on each change of ownership of a security, and this in its turn will impose a limitation on the transaction of badli business, which, so long as such business is regarded as a legitimate part of Stock Exchange machinery, would be intolerable. We would consider this as an objection unless Government can see its way to make such concessions as will enable badli stock to be taken up on payment of a nominal stamp. It will also be necessary, we think, to make similar concessions in respect of stock pledged with banks by recognised stock-brokers.

40. We have considered the possible machinery by which this principle could be put into operation and have come to the conclusion that it does not present any insuperable difficulty. We, therefore, recommend that blank transfers should be made a bad delivery. We make this recommendation regardless of its effect on the revenues of Government, which probably will benefit by its adoption even if a reduced scale were to be fixed. We do so because we are convinced of the healthy effect the abolition of blank transfers will undoubtedly have on stock exchange transactions in general, and it is for that reason that we would like to make it clear that our recommendation is made independently of any action Government may decide to take as to the amount of the stamp duty.

41. To ensure the efficient application of this proposal, however, it would be necessary for ready delivery transactions also to be settled through the Clearing House. In that case, the blank transfer, that is a transfer that does not bear the name of the transferee, and indeed every transfer on passing through the Clearing House, will be dated by the Clearing House with a perforated or embossed stamp showing the date, and no transfer bearing the Clearing House date stamp, whether bearing revenue stamp or not, shall be accepted by the Clearing House as a good delivery, since there must, of necessity, have been a beneficial change of ownership in the interim. Obviously, it would be necessary to withdraw any concessions which may exist under the rules for permitting members to settle bargains outside the Clearing House or banks or institutions associated with the Clearing House. So also, securities held by any party in custody for another party or as security against a liability of the other party will have to be made liable to revenue stamp on a change of beneficial ownership, whether such change be by a completed deed of transfer or not, and the custodian or other holder of such security will have to be made responsible for accounting to Government for the proper revenue stamp due to such transfer, and, in default, be made liable to whatever penalties it may be considered reasonable to impose.

Scripts on the Forward List.

42. The attention of the Committee has been drawn to the exceptional violence of fluctuations in prices in the Bombay Stock Exchange. Apart from the mentality of the operators, which is greatly responsible for this, a contributory factor has been stated to be the very few scrips in which it is possible to deal speculatively, that is, on the Forward List, and, of those few, the still smaller number which are active at any one particular time. The fact of there being only these few scrips active has the effect of concentrating on a very narrow area the very considerable financial resources available for speculation, in a city like Bombay. It has been argued before us that, if that area is widened by the inclusion of more shares on the Forward List, the tendency will be for fluctuations to become less violent, and consequently to prove less attractive to the more reckless type of speculator. This will enable the legitimate speculator or speculative investor to spread his risks over a wider area of securities and industries. In this connection, various proposals have been put forward, such as that the Association should admit to dealings approved securities other than those in which there is a register kept in Bombay. It has also been suggested that the Association should admit to dealings any shares with a register in British India, which have already been admitted to dealings on the London Stock Exchange. While making no definite recommendation on these suggestions, we are of opinion that the Association and Government should give careful consideration to the possibilities inherent in these suggestions, with a view not only to achieving the results indicated above but also to providing opportunity to the Indian investor to place his money in a wider range of industrial securities. Tentatively, we suggest that a beginning in this direction may be made by admitting to dealings shares of approved companies which maintain a share transfer office in the Bombay Presidency.

43. Apart from these proposals to introduce additional approved securities into the Bombay Stock Exchange, we are of opinion that, if the recommendations which we put forward in this report are put into force, it will be possible to bring about a state of affairs whereby dealings in the Share Bazaar would be for cash or settlement at the option of the parties to the contract. In the event of fortnightly settlements being introduced, the tendency would also be for all bargains to be done for settlement on one date instead of separately for cash and for account as at present. The effect of this would be that the Forward List as such would disappear and certain consequential alterations in some of the rules and of the Bombay Securities Contracts Control Act would be necessary. The objection which has been raised to this proposition is that, in view of the very limited market for some of the shares on the Cash List and the small amount of scrips in issue, members would be tempted to sell short and be unable to close. Our answer to that is that, as soon as members realise that the rules and amendments we are proposing are meant to be enforced, they will exercise due care and caution in the commitments they undertake. We are fully aware that the criticism may be levelled at us that we were appointed to devise means of reducing the possibilities for speculation and that our proposals in this respect increase them. With all respect, we have taken a somewhat different view of our responsibilities and, recognising that to stop speculation is impossible, we have attempted to ensure that it shall be so conducted as to afford the public the maximum of protection.

VI—MISCELLANEOUS SUGGESTIONS

44. It will be convenient, at this stage, to mention briefly some of the more important suggestions which have been put forward with the object either of imposing checks on speculation or of rendering it of a more legitimate order, and the reasons why we consider that they would not prove either effective or workable in practice.

(1) "There should be no transaction for two settlements on any day of the year." The argument underlying this is that the existing period of time, extending to some 7 days, during which transactions could take place for the current and for the following settlement, encourages speculation, which can be seriously curtailed only if such facilities are removed. After a careful consideration of this point, we have come to the conclusion that the exigencies of the settlement demand a certain time, during which it is necessary that transactions for the two settlements should take place. We are, however, able to establish that it should be possible to reduce that time to a period of not more than 4 days under existing conditions, and that there are possibilities that in the future the time might be still further curtailed. We have, therefore, included in our recommendations a provision that the existing number of days should be reduced to not more than four.

(2) "The unit of dealing in Forward scrips should be bigger." The intention in this case was to render it either impossible or difficult for the small speculator to open commitments in those shares where the unit of dealings would be high. In our opinion, such a regulation would be too easily evaded to make it worth while embodying it in the rules. There would, for instance, be nothing to prevent groups of small speculators acting together and giving the order through one of their number. The possibilities opened up by such evasion seem to us to contain the seeds of highly undesirable developments.

(3) The face value of most scrips is very high and the number of shares in a scrip too few; and it has been suggested that the face value of the shares should be reduced, so that the numbers would be correspondingly increased. The intention here is not only to increase the freedom of the market in such scrips, but also to interest the smaller investor in the industrial development of the country. There is much to be said for this proposal if, as we have suggested above, dealings can take place without restriction both for cash and for settlement. The investor would naturally, if he has funds readily available, purchase the shares for cash, if there were any advantage in so doing, and the speculative investor would have an opportunity of interesting himself in scrips the market price of which today is too high to enable him to deal in any reasonable number of shares. In reference to this, we invite attention to our earlier remarks, in which we put forward the view that facilities for legitimate speculation are a perfectly proper function of any Stock Exchange.

(4) We have been informed that, in the opinion of those who have submitted their views to us, the large number of brokers on the Share Bazaar, in relation to the amount of legitimate trading which is transacted there, is a direct contributory factor to the unquestionably large volume of speculation which goes on amongst members themselves; and suggestions to deal with this matter have ranged from proposals to reduce the present number of members by some scheme for the purchase and cancellation of cards of membership, to the framing of rules to prohibit members dealing on their own account in any circumstances. While we are fully seized of the fact, as we have stated earlier in our Report, that the volume of speculative business conducted by members themselves is one of the worst features of the Share Bazaar, and unquestionably forms much too large a proportion of the total business done, we are of opinion that direct methods of checking this practice would prove impracticable and almost impossible of operation. We prefer to rely on the indirect effect of our proposals as a whole, which make the penalty for over-trading and rash speculation so inevitable and so severe as to induce members, in their own interests, to limit their commitments in future to their capacity to implement them. Should these anticipations not be realised, it may be necessary at some future date to take more direct action to deal with this evil.

(5) Another widely expressed opinion was that it would be desirable to differentiate between brokers and jobbers. The idea underlying this proposal, that members should declare their status either as brokers or jobbers, is that the jobber would function as in London. He would make a double price and be prepared to purchase or sell scrips (subject, so far especially as selling is concerned, to there being a sufficiently free market), irrespective of whether he himself wishes to be a "bull" or "bear". He would thus render a service to the public, in the first place, by making it possible to buy and sell scrips more readily and in larger amounts than may be easily possible under the present system, and, secondly, by checking violent fluctuations. While we agree that such differentiation would constitute an improvement of the organisation of the Stock Exchange, we have come to the conclusion that it would be impracticable to make such a division effective or workable in the present condition of the Bombay market or in the near future.

(6) A variation of the clean cut distinction is a suggestion that the members should be divided into two classes, one class electing to act as brokers only, that is only able to issue agency contracts and not dealing as principals at all, and the second class electing to act as principals both on their own account in the market and with non-members. As regards this latter proposal, we consider that such dealers would inevitably confine their attention to the scrips which were active at the moment, and, having direct access to the public, would quite naturally recommend these scrips for speculative purchases or sales. The result of this would be to encourage reckless speculation to a dangerous extent. This excessive speculation and its accompanying risk to the Stock Exchange would be concentrated on a few large firms of dealers, and the presence of the broker, who at present acts as an intermediary, or as a cushion of safety, would disappear. Some dealers would, we fear, run their books against their clients, with the result that the client would almost inevitably be penalised. Moreover, such a system would completely vitiate the minimum commission scale rule, and would make it impossible to restrict the issue of contracts to agency contracts; and certainly, strong opposition would come from powerful firms of brokers, who would at once realise that the speculating public will be drawn away from them to the dealers, in the belief that the latter were carrying out their transactions at a smaller cost. For these reasons, we believe any such differentiation to be impracticable and also undesirable. We are of opinion that, if conditions in the Bombay market so develop as to make it evident that the genuine jobber can provide an economic service, then the jobber will emerge naturally and by process of development.

VII—IMPROVEMENT OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE MACHINERY

45. We have been dealing so far with factors which affect the quality and volume of Stock Exchange transactions, and we now propose to consider those proposals which are concerned with the administrative machinery of the Stock Exchange.

Board of Directors.

46. Commencing with the proposals concerning the Board of Directors, we recommend, as has been done before, that this description of the Board should be altered. The present description as "Board of Directors" seems to us to draw an unnecessary and undesirable parallel between an administrative body concerned very largely with discipline and good order and the protection of the public and the Board of an ordinary trading company. It is calculated to instil into the mind of the public an entirely erroneous conception of their functions and duties. The description given in the original Articles of Association of the Native Share and Stock Brokers' Association to this body was that of Governing Body or Managing Committee, and we would advise returning to some such nomenclature as this.

47. A number of suggestions have been put in front of us, which seek to change the constitution of the Board and to curtail or circumscribe its powers. Most prominent perhaps amongst these suggestions is that some form of outside representation should be established. Some suggest that Government should nominate a number of directors; others that certain commercial bodies in the City of Bombay should be permitted to nominate a number of directors to the Board of the Stock Exchange; and yet others that Government should nominate a number of members of the Association to be directors with those elected by the General Body. We are of the opinion that any such form of outside control is unnecessary and undesirable, taking our recommendations as a whole into account. The only change which we would recommend, in order to obtain a constant influx of new blood on to the Committee is that the elections should take place annually.

48. We commend to the consideration of the Government and the Stock Exchange the advisability of instituting a system of retirement of directors by rotation, under which every year, with the exception of the President, three members of the Board will retire, such members being eligible for re-election, while the President himself will retire only after a period of five years, and will also be eligible for re-election. When it is decided to introduce this system, the order in which the existing members should retire may be decided by lot. The newly elected members will in effect remain members of the Board for five years. The advantages of such a system are that, in the first place, it makes it difficult for caucuses to dominate elections, and, secondly, it facilitates the coming in of new men on the Board of Directors without any loss in the efficiency of the administration of the Exchange.

Association vs. Board of Directors.

49. We are of opinion that the Board of Directors is the proper authority to govern the Stock Exchange without interference or dictation from the general body of members other than that which can be exercised at the election of the Board of Directors. It is, in our view, subversive of the authority of the Board that its actions and decisions should be capable of being reversed by the members. To establish this principle, we propose to recommend alterations to those rules which at present extend these powers to the General Body.

Membership.

50. We have given very careful consideration to the terms of admission to the Association and of the privileges attaching to the card of membership. At present the card, on the one hand, is not held to be the personal property of the holder, and, on the other, it extends unequal privileges to the members, unequal to the extent that one member who, by reason of circumstances, has few relatives is in a different position from another who may be able to extend many of the privileges of membership to quite a considerable number of relatives on one card. In neither respect does the present position appear to us to be sound in principle. There is no apparent reason why, for instance, a member, if he chooses to retire early, should be prevented from selling his card to a purchaser whom the Board is prepared to accept as member. No less incomprehensible is the extension of the privilege to relatives. It is perhaps not sufficiently realised that stock-broking is a profession which, if it is to be carried out in the best interests of the State, the public and the Exchange, necessitates that a man should acquire a considerable amount of knowledge and experience and develop sound judgment before he should be admitted by the Board to work as a stock-broker.

51. With reference to the card of membership, we, therefore, recommend that a member may nominate any person who is eligible for admission to membership of the Association, but in order to meet the sentiment which undoubtedly exists, we recommend that, on the death of a member, his legal representatives or members of the family may nominate a person on behalf of a son who is a minor, and that it shall be within the discretion of the Board of Directors to permit the business to be carried on by such person on behalf of the minor until the minor reaches his majority.

52. We have given our attention to the rule which prohibits a member of less than 25 years' standing or a member 55 years of age and of less than 10 years' standing, from nominating a person otherwise eligible under these rules for admission to membership, and we have also considered the present position in which the card of membership is a privilege and not personal property, and have come to the conclusion that the arguments against allowing the card to become personal property have not sufficient weight to affect our decision. We therefore recommend that a card holder who has been a member of the Association for a longer period than seven years shall be at liberty at any time to nominate his successor who is otherwise eligible for membership. There is in principle no reason why a member should not dispose of his card at any time. But the Committee have taken note of the opinion expressed that card holders should be firmly established as members of the Association before being given an opportunity of possibly securing a substantial profit from the sale of the card, and have consequently put a time limit of seven years' minimum period of membership.

53. A number of witnesses have suggested that the present members of the Association should be required to deposit a substantial sum with the Association, or, at least, that new members should be required to do so. The intention of these suggestions is no doubt to ensure as far as possible the presence on the trading floor of men who at least have given proof of some reasonably substantial financial resources. We are of opinion that such a system, while it has certain favourable aspects, would not provide any really effective guarantee to members of the public or to members of the Bazaar themselves, and, at the same time, might operate in the direction of making ineligible for membership some otherwise quite satisfactory candidates. We suggest, on the other hand, for the consideration of those concerned that three members of the Association should be required to act as sureties for each new applicant for membership in the sum of approximately Rs. 10,000 each, for a period of two years from the date of his becoming a member. This method would not call for the provision of actual funds or deposit of securities, but would impose a personal liability on the sureties for the period stated, in the event of the new member failing to meet his engagements within that time, and would, we believe, tend to institute an even more strict consideration of the character and standing of an applicant than may exist at present. Should it be felt, however, that such a condition might debar from membership one who may be fit otherwise but who, having no connection with any member of the Stock Exchange, is unable to furnish the requisite sureties, it may be laid down as an alternative to producing three sureties, that a candidate shall be required to deposit a sum of Rs. 30,000 with the Association for a period of two years.

54. The present annual subscription of Rs. 5 per member is one which is calculated, in our opinion, to bring contempt upon the Association. We recommend, therefore, that the annual subscription for existing members should be raised to Rs. 100 per annum, and for new members should be fixed at Rs. 300 per annum. It has been argued against such a provision that the Association has ample funds, and is in no need of further supplementing them. There appears to us, however, to be a number of directions in which the Association might spend money for the general good of its members, in the way of providing greater facilities for the transaction of their business and in making accessible to them statistical information and for providing for any increase in the cost of maintaining the Clearing House.

55. A number of witnesses urged upon the Committee the desirability of removing the restriction imposed by the rule which makes men engaged in other professions or business ineligible for membership of the Stock Exchange. We are unable to accept this proposal. There is a very good reason for establishing the principle that a member of a Stock Exchange should not be permitted to engage in any other business. Quite simply stated, it is that, in view of the necessity for a member of a Stock Exchange to implement all bargains as soon as they are due, and in view of the general financial risks and liabilities which must be undertaken by a member of a Stock Exchange in the course of his business, it is highly undesirable that he should be in a position to enter into commitments and undertake liabilities in connection with any other business. Moreover, members themselves may arrive at quite a sound judgment as to the credit-worthiness of a fellow-member, so far as his Stock Exchange transactions are concerned, but such estimates might be entirely falsified if outside liabilities are assumed. As the Association has accepted the general principle of this argument, it is, in our view, unnecessary and unwise to make any exceptions, and we therefore recommend that the principle shall be strictly applied.

56. At present there are a certain number of members whose cards, by reason of the dates of their issue, entitle the holders, despite the provisions of Rule 7 (a), to engage in businesses other than that of member of the Association, and further provide that these privileges attach to the card and not to the individual who may at any given moment be the holder. We strongly recommend that this privilege shall cease on the death or resignation of any member at present in a position to exercise this right.

Authorised Clerks.

57. Several proposals were made with the object of improving the standard of the authorised clerks. It was suggested, for instance, that the number of authorised clerks to which a member firm or a member may be entitled should be strictly limited. On the other hand, under its proposed amendments, the Board has asked for power to vary at its discretion the number of authorised clerks permitted to a member or a firm, and, in fact, we understand, is at present exercising such discretion. On the whole, we incline to agree to the amendment proposed by the Board, and do not recommend any interference with the exercise of the Board's discretion in this matter.

58. The position of the authorised clerk is an important one in the machinery of the Stock Exchange, as he exercises practically all the privileges of membership. We feel that a privileged position of this nature should only be conferred on a reasonable money payment, and suggest that an annual subscription of Rs. 200 shall be payable in respect of each authorised clerk.

59. Another proposal was that an authorised clerk should be debarred from receiving a share of the commission on business introduced by him to his employer. We see no reason to interfere with this practice which obtains, so far as we know, in every Stock Exchange.

60. At present a member is permitted to employ certain of his relatives as authorised clerks, in excess of the maximum number of paid authorised clerks to which he is entitled. This appears to us to be entirely indefensible, and, in accordance with the principle laid down in relation to the admission of relatives under a card, we recommend that any relatives who may be employed in the capacity of authorised clerks shall be included in and not be in addition to the maximum number of clerks allowed to a firm or individual.

Tarawaniwalas' Methods of Business.

61. The Bombay Share Bazaar has developed a class of business carried on by a number of members, who in many cases do not appear to have any dealings whatsoever with non-members. Their business is that of buying and selling securities at fluctuating prices, with the intention of securing a profit between purchases and sales. These members are given the name of Tarawaniwalas, but are frequently referred to as jobbers. While perhaps of some limited service in establishing a price in a few active securities, it is unfortunate that much of their business—and at times it reaches very large proportions—consists in effect of mere gambling in differences. We are informed that brokers are hampered in the execution of their clients' business by the fact that, if they attempt to execute a substantial order in one of the more active securities, the Tarawaniwala makes a practice of bidding the price of a stock up against a broker if he were a buyer, or offering it down against him if he were a seller. That this is so seems to be borne out by the relatively common practice of brokers with substantial orders putting them through other members of the Exchange, in order that they may not have to disclose their hand themselves in the open market. This we have dealt with earlier. To ensure, so far as possible, that irresponsible bidding and offering of this nature shall carry a certain minimum of liability, we suggest that a bid or offer of stock in the market, where the amount is not stated, shall be binding to the amount of Rs. 10,000 at the bargain price calculated to the amount nearest to this sum. In our opinion, the inclusion of a rule along these lines will restrain bids and offers which do not represent a genuine demand or supply but are made solely with the object of influencing the market price for some particular purpose; and it will in no way interfere with the execution of genuine business in smaller amounts than those stated above.

Conditions precedent to granting permission to deal.

62. The working of a Stock Exchange entails close co-operation between the authorities of the Exchange and of the companies whose shares are listed for dealings on the Exchange. There appears, however, to exist a certain misapprehension about the function of the Stock Exchange in regard to the requirements it may lay down which a company must comply with before its shares can be admitted to dealings. There is also evident, it seems to us, in the attitude of the joint stock companies towards the Stock Exchange, a certain inability to appreciate the fact that the Stock Exchange performs a very important service to their shareholders, and thus to the companies themselves. We consider it, therefore, appropriate that we should briefly state our views on this somewhat vexed question.

63. It has to be recognised that the admission of a security to dealings on the Share Bazaar is a privilege which can be conceded or withheld by the Bazaar at its discretion, and that the controlling body is entitled to specify the conditions under which it will concede the privilege. At the same time, it must also be recognised that the Share Bazaar is more than a mere collection of individuals banded together for the purpose of private gain, and that it has a duty to provide facilities to the public for the sale and purchase of securities held by the public. Moreover, Government recognition of the Share Bazaar is founded on the expectation that such facilities will not be withheld for arbitrary and vexatious reasons.

64. The Committee of a Stock Exchange has neither the knowledge nor the experience to justify it in attempting to estimate the future prospects of any public company. It must confine itself to instituting such standards pertaining to granting permission for a security to be dealt in on the Stock Exchange as will, so far as possible, ensure that a free market can be established. The law as embodied in the Companies Act is the proper authority to require disclosure of all material facts in a public prospectus or balance Sheet. From this standpoint we consider that, while, in the main, the conditions laid down for granting permission to deal are reasonable, in some instances they go too far and tend to interfere in what, after all, are the duties of the directors of a company or of the shareholders. We have, therefore, suggested certain alterations in the Rules on this matter, which will be found detailed in Appendix IV. In particular we draw attention to the amendment proposed to rule 255, the effect of which will be to give the Board full discretion in the matter of removing any security from dealings if they consider it desirable to do so.

65. We feel that, because not only members of the Bazaar but the public as shareholders are concerned with the relations between themselves and the directors and officials of public companies, we are entitled to state our opinion that much is to be gained by a sincere effort on the part of the members and of officials of companies to co-operate in every possible way to render the working of the official machinery and of brokers' offices as quick, as effective and as economical as possible. Our attention has been drawn, for instance, to the registration fees charged by some companies, which appear to be unnecessarily high, and to act as a deterrent to registration and to have encouraged the use of blank transfers. In Great Britain, the usual charge for registration is 2s. 6d. per Deed, whether that Deed transfers 10 shares or 10,000 shares. There are no doubt other directions in which a desire to help would lead to smoother working.

66. We shall now proceed to consider certain suggestions made in order to make the conduct of business in the Stock Exchange more in accord with the convenience of the general public.

Holidays.

67. A very vexed question, the different aspects of which have been put to us in evidence is that of holidays. The majority opinion was that the number of regular holidays was excessive and acted in a way which was detrimental to the reputation of the Stock Exchange. We find that there is so much force in this argument that we recommend that the market shall only be closed, for the purpose of holidays, on all Sundays throughout the year, all bank holidays declared by the Government of Bombay under the Negotiable Instruments Act, and the following Association holidays, namely, Shree Mahavir Swami's Birthday, Jain Samvatsari and the 21st day of Ramzan. It may be noted that we agree to the continuance of all holidays other than Christmas, which are now observed as whole holidays by the Association. We do not, therefore, apprehend that the limitation of holidays to those mentioned above will cause offence to the religious susceptibilities of any community.

Hours of Business.

68. A number of witnesses expressed a desire that the hours of trading, particularly on the Forward List, should be extended. In our opinion, the present hours of business are sufficient to extend all necessary facilities to the public for the due execution of their business, and we therefore do not recommend any change in the hours fixed at present.

Daily and Monthly Official Lists.

69. A view was very generally expressed that the Stock Exchange should undertake to issue a Daily Official List. We may state that we are strongly in favour of this proposal, and are pleased to note that steps have already been taken by the Board (in consultation with the Chairman of this Committee) to put the suggestion into operation. We might, however, draw attention to the fact that a considerable field for the instruction and information not only of members but of the public lies in the issue of a monthly publication, which would contain more detailed information, both statistical and general, regarding joint stock companies and Government securities and other kindred financial questions than is possible in the daily Official List; and we venture to express the hope that the Board of Directors will explore this subject thoroughly and find themselves before long in a position to put this suggestion into effect.

We suggest that in any future issue of lists of members of the Share Bazaar, the name of the firm to which a member may belong should be inserted against his name; and it would serve to indicate any differences in the nature of their business if those members or firms acting as brokers only were differentiated from those acting both as brokers and principals.

Contract Forms.

70. We are of opinion that a change is necessary in the form of the contract note which is in use at present (Form A in Appendix H of the Rules and Regulations of the Association), and have, therefore, drawn up a revised form of contract which, we hope, will prove more satisfactory (Appendix V). The present form is calculated to perpetuate the mentality which regards a transaction merely as a liability for the settlement of differences and not for the capital sum involved, and the adoption of the form we recommend will gradually have a different psychological effect, inasmuch as it will bring clearly to the notice of the constituent the full extent of the liabilities he has undertaken. The form we have proposed is in accordance with the practice elsewhere, and we can see no reason why it should not be adopted in Bombay. If, as is possible, the change means some additional work in brokers' offices, that is only incidental and of no importance in comparison with the establishment of a sound practice.

There is, we understand, considerable laxity in the matter of affixing stamps to the contract notes, and we think it desirable to have it embodied in the rules that the contract stamp shall be affixed to every contract.

It may be noted finally that in accordance with our recommendations as to net contract notes being prohibited, Form B in Appendix H of the Rules and Regulations of the Association will have to be deleted.

Stock Exchange Building.

71. Interest in the matter of the Stock Exchange building and the facilities it affords was general and not limited to members of the Association. We understand that plans are in existence for the further improvement of the building and that such improvements will be carried out at an early date. In this connection, we recommend that the public should not be allowed entrance to the Stock Exchange other than such as will give them access to brokers' offices. We are also of the opinion that when the reconstruction of the building is taken in hand, no gallery for the accommodation of the public should be provided. Amongst the reasons which have actuated us to make these recommendations is the fact that the existing facilities are in the main made use of by speculators who come to the Stock Exchange day after day and remain there for long periods at a time. This, to our mind, merely encourages a highly undesirable type of speculation, and in so far as withdrawing this permission will tend to limit it, we consider that a good purpose would be served. We are unable to imagine any good reason to justify extending this facility to members of the public.

By inference it follows that we consider it indefensible to admit members of the public under any circumstances whatever to the trading ring. We consider it desirable to express our opinion on this point specifically, because we understand that in the past for a short while the Board did throw open admission to the floor to members of the public on payment of an annual subscription.

VIII—BOMBAY SECURITIES CONTRACTS CONTROL ACT OF 1925

72. We are of the opinion that the Bombay Securities Contracts Control Act, 1925, should be amended in certain respects. Two of the amendments we propose, aim at removing what appears to us to be a serious defect in the Act, while the third, if accepted, will involve a definite extension of the principle underlying the Act.

(1) As it now stands, the Act provides that a recognised Association may, subject to the sanction of the Government, make, vary or rescind rules for the recognition and control of transactions in securities other than ready delivery contracts. Government, however, have not taken power either to make new rules for the Association or even to amend rules which may be submitted to them for their approval. This means that should a situation arise when the Association incontinently turns down a suggestion of the Government for the framing of a new rule or the improvement of an amendment submitted for their approval, and should the Government regard their suggestion to be one of fundamental importance, then they will have no alternative to the course prescribed in section 4 (3), namely, the withdrawal of the recognition given to the Association. In a situation such as is visualised here, it should be possible for Government to take strong and yet not drastic action, and we consider that the ability to amend or to frame any rules will enable the Government to do so. It appears to us that the drastic power to withdraw recognition is not designed for use except in the case of an association which persisted in abusing its powers and in evading its rules to such an extent that the abuse and the evasion amounted unmistakably to a public scandal. We propose, therefore, two intermediate steps. The first step, namely, the power to amend rules submitted for approval or to frame new rules, may be exercised if the Association proves to be recalcitrant and persists in its refusal to accept an amendment or a rule which Government deems to be vitally important. The second step we propose, will become necessary in the event of the Board of the Association proving itself incapable of discharging its functions with a due sense of responsibility. In such an eventuality, we suggest that Government should have the power to appoint its own directors to work with the Board, if possible, or independently of the Board, if necessary, till such time as the Association is prepared itself to elect a new Board imbued with a more adequate sense of its responsibilities. The number of these special directors may be fixed by Government in the light of circumstances that may be obtaining at the time of exercising this power. It will be necessary for Government to give overriding powers to such directors, so that they may be able to administer the affairs of the Stock Exchange should the Board continue to maintain its intransigent attitude. It is only in the very last resort that we think Government should have recourse to the extreme power of withdrawal of recognition.

(2) "Ready delivery contract" has been defined in this Act as "a contract for the purchase or sale of securities for performance of which no time is specified and which is to be performed immediately or within a reasonable time". The question of the reasonable time is in each particular case a question of fact. It is evident that this is a very vague definition inasmuch as it lays down no definite time for the completion of the contract. This facilitates evasion and vitiates any rules the Association might draft to define "ready delivery bargain". We suggest, therefore, that the Act should be amended so as to make "ready delivery contract" mean a contract which must be implemented by the actual delivery of and payment for the security specified in such contract on any business day not later than the seventh day from the date of the original contract.

(3) We would like, however, to go further than this, and propose that ready delivery contracts too should be subjected to the control of the recognised association, particularly as this will ensure a more effective check over the association's rules and regulations. We realise, of course, that this will in effect mean the grant of absolute monopoly to the Association in respect of every contract for the purchase or sale of securities, but we are unable to see any objection to this in principle, nor do we feel that the Board will abuse its privileged position.

73. We think it necessary to draw the attention of Government to the fact that if the control of the Association is extended to ready delivery contracts as proposed, section 6 of the Act, as it now stands, will render void even contracts for the purchase or sale of securities not admitted to dealings on the Stock Exchange unless they are made through members of the Association subject to and in accordance with the rules of the Association. It is undesirable to go to this length, and in amending the Act care will have to be taken to see that the control of the Association over ready delivery contracts extends only to transactions in such shares and securities as are admitted to dealings on the Stock Exchange.

IX—SUMMARY

74. We may summarise our recommendations as under :—

1. The Board of Directors should have only the following powers of intervention in the natural course of the market :—

- (1) Power to suspend the "buying-in" rule, with the previous consent of Government (Para. 20) ;
- (2) power to suspend short-selling, also with the previous consent of Government (Para. 20) ; and

- (3) (i) power to close the market for twenty-four hours (Para. 20); and
 (ii) power to keep it closed for any longer period only when the prior consent of Government has been obtained (Para. 20).

2. Rules in regard to Defaulters must be strengthened as follows :—

- A. (i) Compromise in any shape or form to avoid default should be prohibited (Para. 22).
 (ii) A member's failure to fulfil his obligations arising out of transactions on the Stock Exchange with a non-member must entail declaration of default (Para. 23).
 (iii) A defaulter's property outside of the Stock Exchange must also be made available to the Association for the benefit of his creditors (Para. 23).
- B. (i) A member whose default has been brought about or has been contributed to by speculation on his own account should not be re-admitted under any circumstances (Para. 24).
 (ii) A defaulter who has paid 16 annas in the rupee may be eligible for re-admission by the Board if it is satisfied that his conduct in other respects gives rise to no cause for complaint (Para. 24).
 (iii) In order that the Board may be enabled to deal with the more extreme cases of hardship, it should have powers similar to those possessed by the Committee of the London Stock Exchange, to re-admit a defaulter, whose conduct, on examination, is found to be irreproachable and whose failure is proved to be entirely or in the main due to misfortunes, even if such defaulter has paid up only a portion of his liabilities (Para. 24).

3. The rules in regard to remisiers should be strengthened further by requiring a remisier—

- (i) to deposit with the Association a sum of Rs. 5,000 (Para. 26);
 (ii) to pay an annual subscription to the Association of Rs. 200 (Para. 27);
 (iii) to sever his connection with any other business (Para. 27); and
 (iv) to produce before the Association a clearance certificate from the broker he leaves, should he desire to work as remisier to another broker (Para. 27).

4. Speculative dealings for employees must be prohibited, unless they obtain the written consent of their employers (Para. 29).

5. A simple system of margin deposits should be instituted immediately (Para. 30).

6. A. (i) A minimum scale of brokerage should be established and enforced strictly (Para. 33).

(i) Concessional scale for large business should operate when the business for account is in excess of Rs. 10,000, and for cash is in excess of Rs. 5,000, in one security (Para. 34).

B. (i) The issue of only agency contracts, showing clearly the amount of brokerage charged should be made compulsory (Para. 35).

(ii) The existing Form A should be amended on the lines of the draft contract form in Appendix V (Para. 70).

(iii) If a member instructs another member to execute any business, the latter should receive his remuneration out of and not in addition to the former's commission (Para. 36).

7. A member who is a partner in a firm shall not enter into a contract for the purchase or sale of securities either with a member or a non-member save in the name of the firm and the firm shall be liable for the completion of the contract under the rules and regulations of the Stock Exchange (Para. 37).

8. Blank transfers should be made a bad delivery (Para. 40).

9. Transactions for two settlements should be permitted on not more than four days during the currency of one settlement [Para. 44 (1)].

10. The Board of Directors should be elected every year (Para. 47).

11. The Association should not have any overriding power; its control over the Board should consist only in its power to refuse to elect men who, in its opinion, were not fit to retain its confidence (Para. 49).

12. (i) The right of nomination should be regarded as personal and non-transferable (Paras. 50 and 51).

(ii) A member of seven years' standing should be entitled to dispose of his card to any eligible person (Para. 52).

(iii) A candidate for membership must furnish either three sureties in the sum of Rs. 10,000 each and for two years, or, in the alternative, a deposit of Rs. 30,000 for the same period (Para. 53).

(iv) The annual subscription should be raised to Rs. 100 for an existing member and Rs. 300 for all new members (Para. 54).

(v) The privilege of retaining connections with other businesses, given to pre-1926 members should be regarded as personal and terminate with the death or resignation of the member (Para. 56).

13. (i) A subscription of Rs. 200 per annum should be payable in respect of each authorised clerk (Para. 58).

(ii) Relatives should not be employed as authorised clerks in addition to the prescribed number of authorised clerks (Para. 60).

14. A bid or offer of stock in the market, where the amount is not stated, shall be binding to the amount of Rs. 10,000 at the bargain price calculated to the amount nearest to the sum (Para. 61).

15. Association holidays should be limited to Shree Mahavir Swami's Birthday, Jain Samvatsari and the 21st day of Ramzan (Para. 67).

16. The public should not be allowed access to any part of the Stock Exchange building other than the brokers' offices (Para. 71).

17. The Bombay Securities Contracts Control Act of 1925 should be amended as indicated in section VIII (Para. 72).

We have also dealt with the following questions :—

1. Fournightly settlements should be introduced if it is found for any reason impossible to establish a system of margins (Para. 32).

2. The Forward List should be extended, so as to widen the area open to legitimate speculation (Para. 42).

3. "The Board of Directors" may be dropped in favour of some more appropriate description such as "Governing Body" or "Managing Committee" (Para. 46).

4. The advisability of instituting a rotational system of retirement of the directors may be considered (Para. 48).

5. Sundry amendments to the proposed requirements for permission to deal (Para. 62).

6. Issue of Daily and Monthly Official Lists is advisable both in the interest of the public and of members (Para. 69).

7. List of Members (a) might show against a member's name the firm to which he belongs; (b) also indicate members who work only as brokers and those who work as Principals and brokers (Para. 69).

X—EFFECT OF RECOMMENDATIONS

75. It is possible that, at first sight, some of our recommendations may not appear to be consistent in principle with others. It may be said, for instance, that the Committee recommends, on the one hand, the grant of considerable additional powers to the Board and, on the other, recommends that its powers should be subject to even greater control than before. In reality, there is no fundamental contradiction at all. What has actuated the Committee throughout this report is the realisation that the Board must have as wide a discretion and authority as possible, if it is to discharge its duties with adequate efficiency. The object of a number of our recommendations is gradually to develop amongst the members a desire for the acceptance of that discipline and the adoption of that high standard of conduct without which it is useless to hope that a Stock Exchange can ever command the confidence of Government and of the public. It is equally necessary that the controlling body should learn to exercise its powers with firmness and impartiality, and brook no insubordination or refusal of the members to carry out orders and instructions issued in accordance with the rules and regulations. We feel that the Board of Directors has not been in such a position of undisputed authority, and to strengthen its hands and enable such a position to be reached, we have proposed giving to Government certain powers of control and supersession. We are confident that, when that stage is reached, the need for Government control will have ceased, and no objection will be raised to the Board managing its affairs with unfettered discretion.

76. In Appendix IV we have endeavoured to show in as complete a manner as it was possible to do in the time at our disposal the effect of our recommendations on the rules of the Association as also on the amendments proposed by the Association in August 1935 and April and September 1936. While going through the rules and the amendments we came across several which appeared to us to be either superfluous or not satisfactorily expressed, and we have sought to indicate briefly how and why they should either be improved or deleted. In the case of a few others, we have suggested certain amendments which raise relatively minor questions of principle and to which we have not made any reference in the body of the report. In order to appreciate fully the various issues raised by our terms of reference, we had naturally to study the rules of, and the amendments proposed by, the Association with great care. In surveying them as a whole it appeared to us desirable to incorporate the suggestions which fell in the second and third categories described above, at some place in our report, and it appears to us that the appendix serves this purpose best.

77. In conclusion, we would like to express our appreciation of the public spirit exhibited by all those associations and gentlemen who sent in written statements in response to the general invitation extended by Government and in reply to our questionnaire. Our thanks are also due to those who gave oral evidence before us for their courtesy and evident desire to help in the course of sittings which in many cases were prolonged. In particular, we wish to thank Mr. K. R. P. Shroff who, in his capacity as President of the Native Share and Stock Brokers' Association, spared no effort to render us every assistance in his power.

The Committee desire to place on record their keen appreciation of the services rendered by their Secretary, Mr. H. M. Patel of the Indian Civil Service, whose grasp of both the details and the principles involved in a technical subject proved an invaluable help during the course of our enquiry and in drawing up this report.

Stock Exchange Enquiry Committee : Appointment of —

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY.

FINANCE DEPARTMENT.

Resolution No. 2902.

Bombay Castle, 24th November 1936.

The Governor in Council is pleased to appoint a Committee to examine and report on the organisation and methods of working of the Native Share and Stock Brokers' Association of Bombay, to consider whether any modifications are desirable in the interests of the investing public, and to make recommendations.

2. The Committee will be constituted as follows :—

- | | | |
|--------------------------------|------|--------------|
| (1) Mr. W. B. Morison | .. | ..Chairman. |
| (2) Sir Sohrabji Pochkhanawala | .. } | ..Members. |
| (3) Sir Rahimtoola Chinoy | .. } | |
| Mr. H. M. Patel, I.C.S. | .. | ..Secretary. |

3. The Committee will assemble in Bombay at such place and time as will hereafter be notified.

4. Associations or persons wishing to make proposals for the reorganisation of the Bombay Stock Exchange or for improving its methods of working are invited to send their written representations to the Secretary, Stock Exchange Enquiry Committee, Finance Department, Secretariat, Bombay, as early as possible and not later than the 23rd of December 1936.

By order of the Governor in Council,

C. G. FREKE,
Secretary to Government.

APPENDIX II.

Questionnaire.

1. Should forward trading be stopped completely? Or should it be allowed with restrictions? And, if so, with what restrictions? Do the conditions for putting a scrip on the forward list require any modification?

2. Have you any suggestions to offer as regards the control of sub-brokers, their status, position and responsibility?

3. Is strict differentiation between jobbers, tarawniwalas and brokers advisable?

4. Stock Exchange Building.—Is present accommodation therein sufficient? Are facilities, such as installation of electric boards for giving latest prices, necessary?

5. Do you consider that the existing powers of the President and the Board of Directors require to be enlarged or modified in any way? Should the Board be given power to prevent individual members of the Association, under certain circumstances, from speculating in forward scrips? Should the Board have power to intervene in transactions between members?

6. Do you consider that the intervention of Government is necessary under any special circumstances?

7. Holidays.—Are they excessive at present?

8. Hours of Business.—Are any changes therein necessary or desirable?

9. Brokerage.—Should there be a fixed minimum scale of commissions?

10. Amendments to Contract Notes.—Should it be compulsory for brokerage to be shown separately in an agency contract?

11. Defaulters.—Circumstances under which they should be reinstated. Should defaulters who have not paid their creditors in full be allowed to do business, say, as sub-brokers, and under what conditions?

12. Should restrictions imposed under Rule 7 of the Rules of the Native Share and Stock Brokers' Association on persons having connection with other trades be removed?

13. Clearing House.—Should all dealings in shares, either cash or forward, be arranged through the Clearing House? Should monthly clearing be expedited? Should settlements be fortnightly? Is it necessary to publish daily official price lists?

14. Member's card constitutes a security for the benefit of his fellow members. Should members be required to provide additional security for protecting their clients' interests?

15. Are any powers required for the investigation of brokers' books of accounts and contracts in addition to those at present enjoyed by the Board of Directors?

16. Should blank transfers of shares be allowed? If so, should their currency be limited?

17. Should Rule 335 dealing with corners be revived? Have you any suggestions for the improvement of the rules dealing with corners?

18. Bear Raids.—Should the present rule 188 be continued? Is it adequate for the purpose? Does it require modification in any respect?

19. Should the scrip of a company not be allowed to be quoted for forward dealings where any partner interested in the managing agency of the company and holding a very large number of shares enters into speculative transactions in shares of his own company?

20. Margins.—Whether brokers should be required to insist upon margins from their clients for putting through transactions on their behalf? If so, how can such requirements be enforced on all the parties concerned?

21. Listing requirements.—Are they adequate? Or should they be enlarged further with a view to safeguard the interests of the public?

22. Should it be made compulsory to disclose the identity of a client in all circumstances in the broker's books?

23. Whether it is necessary to prevent members from speculating on their own account? If so, how?

24. Are you of the opinion that the Bombay Securities Contracts Control Act, 1925, requires any amendment; and if so, in what manner? Do you think it is desirable that Government should reserve to itself the power it has at present under the Act of sanctioning the rules of the recognised Association?

25. Are there any other factors in addition to the foregoing which, in your opinion, are responsible for overtrading and the periodical difficulties on the Stock Exchange? What steps would you suggest to prevent these?

2	Lady Members. 3A. Ladies, if otherwise eligible, may be members of the Association; and words importing the masculine gender used in these rules with reference to a member shall be taken to include females.	New rule may not be accepted	We have proposed modification of the rights or privileges of relatives in a card and on general grounds we consider that time is not yet ripe to admit ladies to membership.

Other occupations.

7 (a) No person shall be eligible for membership of the Association if he be engaged as principal or employee in any business other than that of a broker in stocks, shares and like securities or of a general financial Broker or of a bullion and exchange Broker, unless he shall undertake on admission to the Association forthwith to sever his connection with such business ;

Exceptions.

(b) Nothing in sub-rule (a) shall apply to any person who prior to 1st March 1926 shall have been duly admitted a Member of the Association ;

Membership of other Associations.

(c) No person shall be eligible for Membership of the Association if he be a Member of or subscriber to or shareholder or debenture holder in any other institution, Association, company or corporation in Bombay where dealings in stock, shares or like securities are carried on, unless he shall undertake on admission to Membership of the Association instantly to sever his connection with such institution, association, company or corporation as the case may be ;

Other occupations when allowed.

(d) A nominee of a member appointed under rule 12 shall be at liberty to carry on any business that the member in whose place he is nominated carried on at the time of his death provided that he is a member of the family of such member.

(i) Delete the words " or of a general financial broker or of a bullion and exchange broker ", occurring in sub-rule (a).

(i) Vide paragraph 55 of the Report. It was thought inadvisable that members of the Stock Exchange should be engaged in any other business.

(ii) Delete sub-rule (d) and explanation below it.

RESIGNATION.

5 Rights of resigning Members.

22. A Member may resign from the Association by giving fifteen days' notice in writing to the Secretary of the Association of his intention, and upon the expiration of the notice he shall cease to be a Member of the Association and shall forfeit all rights and privileges as a Member of the Association, including any right to the use of or any claim upon or any interest in any property or funds of the Association, and such right, claim or interest shall vest in and become the absolute property of the Association.

EXCLUSION AND SUSPENSION OF MEMBERS.

6 Unworthy Conduct.

23. The Association may by Resolution expel a Member who is guilty of any conduct which in the opinion of the Members renders him unfit to be a Member. Such Resolution shall be passed by a majority of three-fourths of the Members present at a meeting of not less than seventy-six Members and shall be confirmed by a majority of Members at a meeting of not less than fifty Members, held not less than seven and not more than fourteen days after the first meeting.

Substitute the following for this rule:—

“ Resignation of Members.

22. A Member may resign from the Association by giving fifteen days' notice in writing to the Secretary of the Association of his intention, which shall be forthwith posted, and if, on the expiration of the fifteen days, no objection shall have been received, he shall cease to be a Member of the Association.”

It is desirable that such notice should be posted so that Members may have an opportunity to notify the Board if for any reason they wished to oppose the resignation.

11	Expulsion of Director by Board.
	30. The Board of Directors may by Resolution expel from the said Board any Member of the said Board who may, in the opinion of the said Board, be guilty of improper conduct: such Resolution shall be passed by a majority of three-fourths of the Members present at a meeting of the said Board especially summoned for the purpose at which not less than one-half of all the Members of the said Board shall have been present. The said Board shall be the sole judge of what is improper conduct within the meaning of this Rule.

	31. The Board of Directors shall by Resolution expel from the said Board a Member of the Board who, having a direct or indirect interest (except brokerage) in any Bull or Bear syndicate or combination formed to rig or to depress the market or who being a partner or sub-partner in such syndicate or who managing the business of such syndicate or who being a responsible representative of such syndicate, does not forthwith tender his resignation as a Member of the said Board. The said Board shall be the sole judge as to whether a Member of the said Board has any such interest or is such a partner, sub-partner, manager or representative, as the case may be, and their decision shall be final.

Resolution of expulsion how carried.

32. Save where it is otherwise provided in these Rules, a Resolution of the Board of Directors for the expulsion of a Member of the Association or of the said Board must be passed by a majority of three-fourths of the Members present at a meeting of the said Board specially summoned for the purpose at which not less than one-half of all the Members of the said Board shall have been present.

Occasional vacancies.

84. (a) An occasional vacancy in the Board of Directors shall be filled by the Election by ballot by Members of the Association on a date fixed by the said Board not later than one month from the date of such vacancy. The surviving or continuing Members of the said Board, notwithstanding any vacancy in their number, may act until the vacancy shall have been filled, provided that such Members constitute a requisite quorum;

Limited powers of surviving Members.

(b) If such Members do not constitute a quorum they shall exercise the powers of the said Board only for the purpose of filling up such vacancies in accordance with the rules applicable thereto.

(1) Insert the following as new rule 84 (a) :—

“ Vacancy due to absence of a member of the Board :

(a) If a member of the Board of Directors be absent from the meetings of the said Board for a continuous period of three months without the leave of the said Board, the said Board may by a Resolution declare the seat of such member to be vacated.”

Amendments (1) and (3) define more clearly what constitutes a casual vacancy.

(2) Renumber 84 (a) and (b) as 84 (b) and (c), respectively.

(3) In rule 84 (b), so renumbered, for the heading ‘Occasional vacancies’ substitute ‘Casual vacancies’; and for the words ‘An occasional vacancy in the Board of Directors’ substitute ‘If a casual vacancy arises in the Board by reason of death, resignation, removal, expulsion, or absence for a period of three months, such vacancy’.”

Resolution of the Board not to be rescinded by Association.

(f) It shall not be competent to the Association to rescind, alter or vary any Resolution passed by the Board of Directors under the powers of authority conferred upon the said Board by the provisions of this Rule or under any other Rule for the time being in force, unless it is otherwise expressly provided, and all such Resolutions shall, when they come into force, be deemed valid and binding upon all Members.

Validity of Resolution.

101. A Resolution of the Board of Directors shall not, save as is otherwise provided in these Rules, be deemed valid or come into force until eight working days after it has been posted on the notice board of the Association, unless it be a Resolution which relates to the admission, expulsion or suspension of Members or their authorised clerks, the declaration or readmission of defaulters, settling disputes between Members or between Members and their constituents, fixing, altering or postponing ordinary settling days or days for buying-in or selling-out and days and hours for the payment of differences, granting or refusing special settlements, permission for dealing in shares, closing the Market, altering hours of business, suspension of forward dealings and buying-in and selling-out rules and declaring making up prices, the appointment, suspension or dismissal of the paid officers and servants of the Association, when it shall come into force when as proviso to it—

“Provided that the President shall be entitled to exercise any or all of the powers exercisable by the Board under (a) to (e) whenever he is of the opinion that immediate action is necessary, subject to his action being confirmed by the Board within 24 hours.”

(5) Re-number clause (f) as sub-rule (2) of rule 100, and delete therefrom the words “unless it is otherwise expressly provided.”

Substitute the following for this rule:—

“(a) Except in the cases specified in (b) below, a Resolution of the Board of Directors shall not be deemed valid or come into force until eight working days after it has been posted on the notice board of the Association.

(b) In the following cases, a Resolution of the Board shall come into force as soon as it is passed unless it requires confirmation, in which case it shall come into force when it is confirmed.

(1) The admission, expulsion or suspension of members or their authorised clerks;

The amendment does not allow the Board to alter or postpone settling days or other days on which the account is in the course of settlement. In other respects it alters the set-up by tabulating the powers.

Payment in full.

159. A defaulter shall be readmitted by the Board of Directors upon the report of the Defaulters' Committee that all his debts and liabilities have been bona fide discharged in full within six months from the date of declaration of default or within such further time as may be granted by the Board under the rules.

For rule 159, substitute the following:—

“159. (1) Upon an application for re-admission by a defaulter, the Defaulters' Committee shall investigate his conduct and accounts, and no further proceedings shall be taken by the Board with regard to his re-admission until the report of the Defaulters' Committee shall have been submitted together with a statement as to the defaulter's estate signed by himself.

(2) The attention of the Defaulters' Committee shall be directed—

- (i) to ascertain the greatest balance of securities during the previous 3 months; the highest volume of purchases and sales separately on any day during the same period; the proportion of the total purchases and sales during that period on his own account and on account of his constituents;
- (ii) to ascertain the total amount paid to his estate, specifying the sums collected in the Stock Exchange, those received from principals, and those from the defaulter himself;
- (iii) to ascertain the conduct of the defaulter preceding and subsequent to his failure.

Net Contracts.

- (b) Members may issue net contracts without showing brokerage separately, should their constituents so desire, provided commission not exceeding the prescribed scale is charged and provided such contract notes state that the commission is allowed for in the price. Such contract notes shall be in Form A prescribed in Appendix H annexed to these Rules ;

Contracts by Principals.

- (c) In cases where a Member is buying for himself the securities of his constituent or selling his own securities to his constituent or acts in the capacity of a principal with the constituent, no commission shall be charged. Such contract notes shall be in form B prescribed in Appendix H annexed to these Rules ;
- (cc) A contract note shall be signed by a Member or by his constituted attorney.
- (d) No contract note not in one of the printed Forms in Appendix H shall be deemed to be valid.

Contracts for Budlee.

- (e) A member may render contract notes in Form A prescribed in Appendix H even if he employs his own resources in carrying forward the purchases of his constituent from one settlement to another.
- (f) A contract note referred to in this rule or any other rule for the time being in force shall be deemed to mean and include a contract and shall have the same significance as a contract.

Delivery of Transfers.

199. (a) In all ready delivery contracts the necessary transfer forms duly signed by the transferor and witnessed shall be delivered by the seller to the buyer before 5 p.m. on any business day or before 3 p.m. on Saturday, but not later than the seventh day from the day of sale. When transfer forms are not so delivered, securities may be bought in by the buyer in the manner provided in these Rules.

Add the following proviso to sub-rule (a) :—
 "Provided that any procedure which may be adopted which shall appear to the Board to be an evasion of this rule, shall be treated as though it were a breach or violation of the rule, and shall bring the member under the provisions of rule 28 (b) (iii)."

To enable the Board of Directors to bring offenders under the disciplinary rule.

Delivery of Shares.

200. (a) Delivery of shares sold must be made by the seller before 2 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays only provided that such delivery shall not be made earlier than the 6th and later than the 8th day from the day on which the transfer forms were delivered. If delivery of shares is not so made, the shares may be bought in by the buyer in the manner provided in these rules.

BUYING-IN AND SELLING-OUT.

Acceptance of the amendments is recommended.

In Open Market.

204. Buying-in and selling-out must be effected by the Secretary of the Association in the open Market during the official business hours save as otherwise provided in these rules. Only Members may make a bid or offer. The charges for buying-in and selling-out shall be half of those authorised by Appendix G.

DOCUMENTS AND REGISTRATION.

Regularity and genuineness of documents.

229. (a) A Member who receives payment against delivery of all necessary documents either on his own account or on behalf of his constituent shall be personally responsible to the Member to whom the same are delivered for their tills, regularity and genuineness provided the documents are lodged with the company for registration within twenty-one days of the date of receipt of such documents by him. Opening and closing of Market.

- (b) The opening and closing of the hours of Forward business shall be announced by the ringing of a bell and a warning bell shall be rung fifteen minutes before the closing.

Acceptance of amendments to Rules 239 and 240 is recommended.

Substitute the following for sub-rule (a) :—

“(a) The hours of business shall be as under :—

Stocks and Shares other than Government Securities.

Forward business .. 12 to 2 p.m. on every business day.

Ready Delivery 12 to 5 p.m. from business. Monday to Friday.
12 to 2 p.m. on Saturday.

This amendment brings together all the Rules governing the hours of business.

Closing in Crisis.

244. (a) The President shall have power in a grave crisis or emergency to stop immediately dealings in the shares of any company or in any security or even to close the Exchange by ringing the bell, subject to the confirmation of the Board within twenty-four hours. In either of these events the Secretary shall convene a meeting of the Board of Directors within an hour of such closing.

Ban on short Selling.

(b) In a crisis or emergency or when it is obvious to the Board that a crisis is at hand or that a fair or normal market may not exist, and the Board is satisfied that a temporary suspension of short selling is in the public interest, the Board shall prohibit short selling in any security for such period as the Board may from time to time decide by a resolution of not less than one-half of the total number of Members of the Board at a special meeting at which not less than three-fourths of the total number shall have been present.

A resolution so passed shall be final and shall come into force forthwith.

Period of closing extended.

(c) The Board may at a special meeting by a majority of two-thirds of the members present extend the period in clause (a) up to a maximum of five business days.

(1) Delete sub-rule (a)

(2) Renumber rule 244 (b) as 244 and substitute the following for it :—

“ 244. In a crisis or emergency, or when it is obvious to the Board that a crisis is at hand or that a fair or normal market may not exist, and the Board is satisfied that a temporary suspension of short selling is in the public interest, the Board shall, with the previous consent of Government, prohibit short selling in any security, provided that the President shall not approach Government for their consent unless at least 9 members of the Board shall have voted in favour of such suspension.”

(3) Delete sub-rules (c), (d) and (e).

Grant or Rejection of Application.

248. The Board of Directors shall consider and may in their discretion grant or reject any application for the admission of the shares or securities of a company to dealings on the market, provided that no application for such admission shall be granted unless the requirements and conditions hereinafter set out shall be complied with, provided however that the Board of Directors may by a resolution passed by a majority of two-thirds of the members present at a meeting dispense with the strict enforcement of this rule for the purpose of ready delivery transactions only.

Acceptance of the amendment to rule 248 is recommended.

Vendor's Securities.

251. No dealings shall be allowed in the shares or securities issued by a company to vendors and credited as fully or partly paid until six months after the date on which permission has been granted for dealings in shares or securities of a like class or description issued to the general public. For the purpose of this Rule, shares or securities issued as fully or partly paid to a person or persons or firm or corporation in consideration of the sale or transfer of property or in consideration of services rendered in the formation or promotion of the company shall be deemed vendor's shares or securities.

This rule opens the way to irregular dealings in vendor's shares outside the Exchange, and the Board might with advantage consider the advisability of amending the rule.

Note.—The Board of Directors will take exception to any provisions contained in the Articles of Association which may, in any way, restrict free dealings in the shares or which may, in the opinion of the said Board, be unreasonable in the case of a Public Company.

Fair allotment.

(d) (i) At least 50 per cent. of the issue, whether such issue be the whole or part of the authorised capital, shall have been offered to the public in equal proportion as to class or kind and allotted fairly and unconditionally. For the purpose of this rule, vendor's shares or securities shall not be considered to form part of such public allotment.

Compliance with conditions of fair allotment.

(ii) If the Company satisfies the Board of Directors that the Company invited applications for at least 50 per cent. of the shares or securities issued, for a period of not less than eight days and that the public did not apply for 50 per cent. of the number of shares or securities issued and that in consequence less than 50 per cent. of such shares or securities have been allotted to the public, the Company shall be deemed to have complied with the provisions of this Rule.

CLEARING HOUSE.

133 Function of Clearing House.

283. (a) There shall be a Clearing House under the control of the Board of Directors which shall act as the common agent of the Members for clearing contracts between the Members and for delivering securities to and receiving securities from the Members and for receiving or paying any amounts payable to or payable by such members in connection with any of the contracts and to do all things necessary or proper to carry out the foregoing purposes.

134 Delivery and payments through Banks.

285. (a) The Clearing House shall maintain a list of Banks, trusts, companies and other firms approved by the Board of Directors who may act for Members and their constituents in giving and taking delivery of securities, transfers and other documents and in making and accepting payment for the same at the making-up price. The said Board may from time to time add names to such list and remove names therefrom.

BARGAINS GENERALLY.

Bargains.

348. Bargains in securities and stock to which these Rules apply may be for ready delivery or for the settlement.

Acceptance of amendment to rule 348 is recommended.

READY DELIVERY BARGAINS.

145

Delivery and Payment.

351. (a) A bargain for ready delivery shall be for delivery and payment before 3 p.m. on the business day next following the bargain unless otherwise stipulated at the time of the bargain. If such day is Saturday delivery and payment shall be made on the business day next following;

In sub-rule (a) of rule 351, delete the words "unless otherwise stipulated at the time of the bargain".

(b) A bargain for ready delivery shall not be valid if the delivery is to be made more than seven days from the date of contract.

Insert the following as new sub-rule (c):—
“(c) A bargain for ready delivery shall be completed by the delivery of and payment for the securities not later than 7 days from the date of the original contract.”
